Olympus is under attack and needs a hero to rise from the ashes of its destruction. Answer the call for help in this match-three puzzler before the home of the gods is lost forever! A monstrous evil has escaped fiery Tartarus, hungry for power and revenge. Its target: Olympus and the gods that rule mankind from the heavens. By creating chains of matching tiles on a game board, you will search for and collect the scattered pieces of the weapons that will allow you to face a pantheon of larger-than-life beasts. As you battle the Minotaur, Medusa the Gorgon and more, Zeus, Perseus and others will be at your side, providing help in the form of special skills! To overcome obstacles on the game board and achieve victory, you must master the use of powerful items and create chains that unleash visually dazzling effects. For example, creating a chain of blue tiles might drop a lighting bolt into place and allow you to string together another chain that sets off an explosive chain reaction and completes your tasks for the level! With gameplay that's constantly evolving, changing and

This simulation is a sandbox environment where YOU can be the mayor. make sure what he was thinking. I think he was thinking that the right one to be playing Rose on the show was going to be an A list person or a B list person, and that the show was getting watered down because they weren't really looking for the kind of talent that would be great on their shows. So I think he was really just trying to not water down the show and make it a notch better." In June 2011, the Telegraph revealed that Paige had been replaced as Rose for the third series by the actress Olivia Olson, for a reported £300,000. An unnamed member of the public was quoted as saying, "The judges must be sick of her. We are sick of her. Everyone in the street is sick of her. She is not even an actress, she is just a joke." Olson confirmed the reasons for being dropped from the show, saying, "I was simply asked to walk out as Rose after coming under pressure to replace her. When I was asked to audition, I had no knowledge about the show or who was involved in it and nor did I care. I just wanted to be put through my paces to see if I had what it takes to stay in the same category as the others." In August 2011, Paula co-hosted TOWIE with Megan Barton-Hanson and Aimee Amore on E4's sister channel E4+1. In December 2011, Paige won Channel 4's New Year Quiz for The Million Pound Drop'.
